

Thaddeus Schlabach

Sous Chef Thaddeus Schlabach has been a member of Public Kitchen and Bar's team since its inception. Thaddeus's passion and love for the culinary arts formed as he developed dishes in a kitchen alongside his Amish grandmother. Spending most of his childhood on a farm in rural Ohio, Thaddeus learned the value of farm-to-table cooking. In 2004, he came to Savannah to test his abilities in an exciting and burgeoning culinary scene. Apprenticing with several talented chefs, he turned his passion for food into a challenging and rewarding career. Thaddeus is at home at Public Kitchen and Bar where traditional cuisine is elevated with innovative ideas and techniques, as these beliefs mesh well with the values he holds for creating and presenting quality locally sourced dishes.
